

You paint such a negative view of God as if we are wicked beings because we are not perfect. You make it sound like we all deserve Hell fire. If a child steals a cookie from a cookie jar, I'm not going to throw the child in the oven for all eternity. That's the problem I have with what you are saying.

We all have a problem with it. The criminal never has a good view of the judge that has just sentenced him to death. I don't think you are going to hear the criminal say "I like that man." No! He's going to be mad. And God has leveled the death sentence at me, you, and all of humanity. We all die because we've violated an eternal law. That's it. We can get really mad at God because of the law of gravity. Do you realize that God made the law of gravity and it kills people every day? People die from the law of gravity! We can blame God but if you transgress the law of gravity – you die. If you fall out of a 10 story building - you suffer the consequences. And there is another law called the law of sin and death and it is eternal – it is the law of justice. The Bible says "The soul that sins, it shall die." So, you haven't really got any choice. You are up the river Niagara without a paddle and God is throwing you one rope. You can say "I don't like the person on the other end who is pulling the rope." I don't think I would worry about that. Just let God pull you to the shore because you have no paddle and you're going to go over the falls and perish. God offers you mercy, so take hold of that mercy and keep your mouth closed. That is fearing God, trusting in Him, and it's all wrapped up in faith.
