

Audio Technica CK10 Ear Tip Tips

Shure Triple
Flange Knockoff

Monster
Cable Triple Flange (came with MTPC)

Monster
Cable small
Triple Flange (came with MTPC)

ETY
Glider
Foam

Comply
Large T-400
(for size comparison)

Stock AT CK10 Large
Silicon tip

The Monster Cable large triple flange works the best for me, and the bass is near flat down to 20Hz. The soundstage also seems to become much more 3D with these tips. My theory is the longer tips reduce the volume of air the drivers couple with, allowing a flat bass response to 26 Hz with 20 Hz being very audible and near flat. The wider opening of the MC tips may play into the better stage and imaging. While the Glider tips work and increase the bass, the MC tips are better and also have better imaging. The small MC tips are too small for my ears. In comparison, even large Comply tips are not as extended as the MC tips. This is what works for me, hopefully it will work for you also!